

I pay nearly $10 a month for premium access to commercial-free satellite radio. I do this because the variety of broadcast radio and the amount of commercials broadcast over local radio is unacceptable. Most of the local stations are owned by large, impersonal, national corporations who show no interest in the local community. XM has stations specifically tailored to my interests, and is therefore the only radio I listen to. Knowing that at any time I can tune my XM Radio to hear local weather or traffic updates, without waiting for a string of annoying commercials and/or DJ chatter keeps me a member of the "XM Nation." We are given a choice to listen to broadcast radio for free or to pay a monthly fee and be given the privilege to listen to premium content. I choose to pay the fee, and in doing so, am expressing personal preference. Do Not Let Congress Take Away Our Ability To Choose!
